

Loving Me Alone

Loving me alone
I'd clone this smile
Strutting the streets
The click, click of my feet
Loving me alone

Only air by my side
I would never hide
Self-confidence and pride
The wink, wink of my eye
Loving me alone

I don't mind if you stare
From way over there
I already complimented
The bounce, bounce of my hair
Loving me alone

Me, I never miss
In the mirror, I blow a kiss
Strawberry sparkle glosses
The muah, muah of my lips
Loving me alone

So full of charm
I give myself a gift
Tell a joke; the other half is
The ha, ha of my laugh
Loving me alone

Loving me
Click, click, wink, wink
Bounce, bounce, muah, muah
Ha, ha
Alone

This poem is an excerpt from With Open Eyes: A Poetic Journey through Love by Leah Cast. Outskirts Press. All Rights Reserved. Copyright © 2011 Leah Cast